PLEBISCITE FAILS IN GERMAN VOTE

Train Dynamited, Two Policemen Slain After Move Is Defeated.

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—(P)—Government satisfaction over the results of today's plebiscite in Prussia, in which the left and right opposition elements failed to secure a majority necessary to dissolve the diet, was marred by reports of radical "direct action" in many parts of the country.

The dynamiting of the Berlin police headquarters in the morning, in which the dynamite failed to explode, and the shooting of a police captain in the afternoon, were the latest incidents of the "direct action" movement.

The shooting of the Berlin police captain came suddenly tonight after a comparatively quiet day. Up to a late hour police were continuing to "hunt up" the dynamite in the vicinity of the police headquarters, where the shooting occurred.

While these violent developments were tending to cause uneasiness in Berlin, a demonstration at Cologne indicated that the nation is by no means universally in sympathy with the anti-republican groups.

In this Rhineland city, 40,000 Reichsbanner men gathered in a huge "army of peace" to cheer speakers who appealed for Franco-German reconciliation and a maintenance of the republic.

Outside of Berlin only one fatality was reported. Albert Heister, district leader of the Steel Helmers at Cologne, was assassinated.

In various cities, however, police were called out to quell clashes between communists and national socialist groups.

Arkansas Physician Arrested in Murder

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 9.—(P)—Dr. C. S. Roth, 52, North Little Rock physician, was arrested today in connection with the slaying of Luther W. Lindsey, 50, North Little Rock, in a car parked on a street near here last night. Mrs. M. A. Griffin, Lindsey's companion, also was held.

Prosecuting Attorney Carl Bailey said Mrs. Griffin in a statement declared the slaying resembled Dr. Roth's, her employer.

Mrs. Griffin, in reporting the slaying last night, told officers two masked men approached their parked car and shot Lindsey when he resisted an attempted holdup. The shot that killed Lindsey was fired from behind the car.

Employment for 1,250,000 Men Seen in Return of Legalized Beer

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 9.—$483,000,000 in revenue and, in addition, 1,250,000 jobs for men, are the benefits that would be realized by the repeal of prohibition, according to a study made by the National Tax Association and the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Business Men's Prohibition Foundation, which contended restoration of beer would be a moral and economic benefit, said the study showed that 25,000 persons were dependent upon Anheuser-Busch for their employment and livelihood. We were then producing but two per cent of the beer of the United States. If 25,000 persons were provided full-time employment by one plant that produced but two per cent of the beer in the country, then it is clear that 1,250,000 men were employed by the brewing industry as a whole, including the dependent industries.

12 WORKING DAYS WILL DECIDE FATE OF RUSSELL BILLS

General Assembly Enters Home Stretch With No Major Legislation Approved by Both Branches

BY R. E. POWELL.

In 12 more working days the general assembly of Georgia must determine whether a program fostered by Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. is to be written into law or whether the regular session is to go down in history with nothing more to its credit than a balanced budget.

To date, no piece of major legislation has been approved by both branches. The house has passed the reorganization, appropriation and redistricting bills. The senate has passed a redistricting bill which must go to conference. It is equally certain that the appropriations bill will go into conference.

And, as it approaches the end of a turbulent session, during which the legislature has been up and again down, it is faced with investigations which many members think may prolong the session with impeachment trials.

Probers to Resume Work

This afternoon at 3 o'clock the special house committee will continue its work with an examination of Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture. Talmadge has been under fire almost daily, either in the senate or house, since the session opened. To the failure of the special legislative reorganization committee to recommend any major changes in the department has been assigned much of the opposition to the bill. The administration reorganization measure.

Members of the committee Sunday expressed the opinion that it will be necessary for them to subpoena, also State Auditor Tom Wisdom.

Comment of the auditor in his examination of the agricultural, highway and secretary of state's departments precipitated the appointment of the special committee to probe these offices. The verbiage of the comment has been construed differently by committee members and today it was indicated Sunday, Wisdom will be invited to clear up alleged ambiguities in his audits.

Battle Intensified

As the last days of the session approach, the fight between the senate and the house has been intensified. The reorganization bill which the house passed early in the session is in the senate with an unfavorable committee report. There have been intimations that the bill will be summarily slaughtered and its original purpose will be lost.

The house also, several days ago, sent to the senate a bill to amend the constitution to provide for a redistricting bill. Unless the 12 congressional districts are rearranged so as to reduce them to 10, it will be necessary for all candidates for congress in 1932 to run from the state at large.

Redistricting Differences

Most members of the delegation appear to be satisfied with a redistricting program which puts Representatives from the 12th and 13th districts in the same district. An election in the proposed new sixth, if all three were to seek re-election, would be a serious test of the new plan. The other districts have retained much of their original identity and, at least, sitting members are not disturbed.

Administration measures yet to be passed upon in the senate include the Battle-Allen bill to discount Western and Atlantic rentals for a period of 10 years. This measure has been approved by the house ways and means committee and passed. The proposed increase of the gasoline tax from six to eight cents.

CALL IS ACCEPTED DONALD BAIN DIES BY DR. DAUGHTRY AT SOLDIERS' HOME

Brooklyn Minister To Take Pulpit of Westminster Presbyterian Church

Dr. Samuel S. Daughtry, until recently pastor of the "Old First" church, of Brooklyn, N. Y., accepted the call to become pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church at the conclusion of the morning worship at that church Sunday.

Dr. Daughtry is a native Kentuckian, having been born at Bowling Green. He is the son of Colonel and Mrs. Ernest Daughtry and springs from one of the old-established families of the Blue Grass State. He was graduated from Ogden College with honors in 1914, meanwhile preaching in Methodist churches of the vicinity. His theological course was completed at Emory University, of Atlanta, in 1917.

Though brought up in the Methodist church, Dr. Daughtry entered the Presbyterian ministry at the College Park Presbyterian church after being ordained in the Bethany Presbyterian church of the Atlanta presbytery in 1917. Mrs. Daughtry was a member of the old Westminster church between the graduation of her husband from Emory University and the beginning of his pastorate in College Park.

After leaving Atlanta presbytery, Dr. Daughtry served as pastor of the Frankfort (Ky.) Presbyterian church for a year. In 1920, he entered a four-year pastorate in the Harrodsburg, Ky., church, followed by a successful three-year service in the First Presbyterian church of Ashland, Ky. In 1927, Dr. Daughtry assumed the pastorate of the Old First Dutch Reformed church at Brooklyn, N. Y., one of the three old churches on Long Island, all organized the same year, 1654. While in Brooklyn, Dr. Daughtry was very active in charitable and civic enterprises of the borough.

He was a member of the educational committee of the state of Kentucky, a member of the board of trustees of Pikeville College, a member of the board of trustees of two weeks College, and was a member of the annual young people's summer conference held at Center College, Ky., the time of his call to Brooklyn, moderator of the presbytery of Ebenezer.

Mrs. Daughtry is at present in Arcadia, Cal., with their two sons, Wilbur and Samuel. They are expected to join Dr. Daughtry here in the near future.

1 Killed, 3 Wounded During Gun Battle

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 9.—(P)—A gun battle in a Warrior River swamp, near Taylor's Ferry, about 35 miles southwest of here, early today resulted in the death of one participant, the serious wounding of another and the wounding of two bystanders.

David Z. Knight, 51, who officers said barricaded himself behind a counter in the dance hall, was killed as the bullets tore splinters from the crowded dance floor, sending the terrified couples scurrying for cover.

C. C. Cotherworth, 55, said by County Investigator T. J. McCallum, had been Knight's opponent in the duel, was seriously wounded and Malth Perry and Lewis Bates, standing in the line of the fire, were struck by bullets.

On a table were four letters, two in the handwriting of Mrs. Williams, written on blacked-out mourning paper she had used since the death of her husband several years ago. The others were penciled in the scrawl of the aged mother.

Heana and Archduke May Fly to America

VIENNA, Aug. 9.—(P)—Reports current in Austrian circles today said there was a possibility Archduke Anton of Hapsburg and Princess Heana of Rumania, who were married two weeks ago, might be flying to America. The prince and princess are expected to fly to the United States.

The airplane is in England, where it was made. The couple expect to pick it up when they go there at the close of their honeymoon.

Wilkins' Nautilus Arrives in Tromsøe

TROMSØE, Norway, Aug. 9.—(P)—The Arctic-bound submarine Nautilus of Sir Hubert Wilkins arrived here today at 11:10 a. m., after a trip of four days from Bergen.

The submarine now faces the last lap of her voyage to her Spitzbergen base. Once there, it is expected that the voyage of two or three weeks into the Arctic will be begun.

The submarine plans to return to Spitzbergen about the middle of December.

IRKED OVER SLUR UTTERED BY CHILD, KEY SCORES FOES

'Morons Poisoning Youthful Minds,' Mayor Tells Congregation at Judge Morris' Revival.

Actuated by a slur cast upon him by a child Sunday morning, Mayor James L. Key Sunday night attacked leaders of the current movement seeking to bring about his recall, charging that his opponents were so bigoted in their fight on him that they "are poisoning the minds of the children of the city."

Assailing, without mentioning names, those who are circulating petitions asking a recall election, the mayor spoke before a gathering of church people at revival meeting at DeKalb avenue and Sutherland terrace. As the mayor scored his foes there was a chorus of "amens" from those attending the service and after the meeting had been concluded more than 200 of the 400 persons present gathered around the mayor, shook hands with him and took his place at the prohibition law and for his refusal to withdraw previously made statements attacking the amendment.

For nine years Mayor Key has taught and led a Sunday school class at the Grace Methodist church. Each Sunday, despite his poor physical condition, the mayor casts aside his thoughts of municipal government and its problems and takes his place at the head of the Bible class, to instruct and inspire his students. Under his direction the class has grown to be one of the largest in the city.

Stops to Greet Children.

Sunday morning, though the effects of his last year's illness were telling, the mayor, aided by his walking stick, went to the church and presided over the class. After Sunday school he excused himself from the regular morning service and stood behind the altar.

At Ponce de Leon and Parkway drive the mayor stopped for a red traffic light. So did a street car carrying a load of children bound for a Sunday outing. His love for children led the mayor to walk over to the side of the car for a minute's chat with the children. Some of them recognized him greeted him with a smile and a "hello."

One said:

"There's the mayor half drunk now."

The traffic light flashed red and the car and the mayor went on their respective ways. He was headed home to rest.

Attack on Foes.

Sunday night as he was introducing to the text revival congregation Judge Frank Morris, a former Dallas (Texas) prosecuting attorney, Mayor Key launched into an attack on those sponsoring a movement for his recall, assailing them as hypocrites, and referring to the leaders of the movement as "morons." It was one of the strongest denunciations he has made of those who are attempting to recall him. He said he had seen in recent alleged anti-prohibition statements, uttered while on a trip to France with other American mayors.

CRAMER MISSING AS GERMAN LANDS

Lindy Held Back By Weather; Boardman and Polando in France.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

An enthusiastic crowd peered through rain-swept skies at Copenhagen, Denmark, last night awaiting the arrival of Parker Cramer on the leg of his pioneering flight for a possible Detroit-to-Copenhagen mail route.

Meantime, Wolfgang von Gronau, German trans-oceanic veteran, backtracking Cramer's course from Europe to America, reached Reykjavik, Iceland.

Russell Boardman and John Polando, the New York-to-Turkey birdmen, flew from Istanbul, Turkey, to Marseilles, France, to board a homeward-bound boat.

Two other pairs of long-distance fliers, including the Lindberghs, spent yesterday on the ground. The Flying Colonel and his wife awaited favorable weather which would permit them to leave Point Barrow, Alaska, for Nome.

Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, at Tokyo, hoped for an early end of their difficulties with Japanese authorities so the preparations for a non-stop Seattle flight might be speeded up.

COPENHAGEN HEARS NOTHING FROM PARKER CRAMER

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 9.—(P)—Parker D. Cramer, American aviator, who was expected to land here by 6 p. m. today, was still unheard from at 7:30 p. m. It was believed he might have been forced down somewhere between here and the Shetland Islands, where he hoped off today at 10:40 a. m.

Seven Danish radio stations for some time had been calling him without success.

A large crowd had gathered at the airport here to welcome him. Among them were the American charge d'affaires, North Vinship, the Danish minister of communications, Fris Skotte; Captain G. Rague, president of the American Club, and other prominent members of the American colony.

No anxiety was felt here, because of the aviator's past reputation for resourcefulness.

There was a report that Cramer's backers intend to send at least one plane every month over the same route in an effort to ascertain whether it would be possible to establish a regular mail service.

All ships were asked by wireless to keep a sharp lookout for Cramer's plane.

If he should be down, or landed in some Norwegian fjord, it was said, he would probably be unable to use his radio, which performed well only in flight.

Earle Williams' Widow, Mother, Children Slain

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—(P)—Fortune and home swept away by a series of financial and legal entanglements, Mrs. Florine Williams, widow of the motion picture actor, Earle Williams, was found fatally poisoned in a fashionable apartment here today.

The room beside her, dead, were her mother, Mrs. Clarissa Wals, 80, and her two children, Joan Constance, 7, and Earle Jr., 4. Police described it as a homicide and murder pact.

Attendants in a police precinct found the four had large pads of cotton, saturated with chloroform, over their faces. Mrs. Williams died later at an emergency hospital.

On a table were four letters, two in the handwriting of Mrs. Williams, written on blacked-out mourning paper she had used since the death of her husband several years ago. The others were penciled in the scrawl of the aged mother.

Atlanta Spends $30.08 Per Capita, Census Figures for 1930 Reveal

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(P)—The cost of Atlanta's government spent $8,171,572 or $30.88 per capita for operation and maintenance of the general departments of the city government in 1930, the census bureau announced today. The per capita figures were based on a population of 271,700.

Payments for the operation and maintenance of public service enterprises for the year (waterworks, sewers, cemeteries and auditoriums) amounted to $504,251; interest on debt $800,139; and outlays for permanent improvements, including those of public service enterprises, $1,493,211. The total payments, therefore, for operation and maintenance for general departments and public service enterprises, for interests and outlays, were $11,000,173.

The total revenue receipts for the city corporation, $13,508,944 or $50.11 per capita, was $19,555,206 more than the total expenses for the year, exclusive of payments for permanent

Destruction Immediately

Two well-known Atlanta businessmen were among six persons instantly killed in an airplane crash at Cincinnati Sunday morning—the most tragic aviation disaster since that in which Knute Rockne lost his life.

Local victims of the crash were:

William E. Keith, 32, of 196 Rumson road, district manager of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, radio manufacturers.

William H. Brimberry, 35, of 1107 St. Augustine place, vice president and part owner of the Capital Electric Company.

Keith and Brimberry were on their way home from Chicago after attending a convention of radio distributors. Keith had planned to arrive in time to celebrate his wife's birthday today, while Brimberry was hastening home to be with his wife and their week-old son.

Other victims.

Marvin T. Odell, 26, pilot of the big tri-motored plane, Cincinnati; William J. Dewald, 31, co-pilot; Fort Thomas, Ky.; Miss Gwenna D. Hughes, 21, Fort Thomas, Ky.; and V. B. Beaulieu, 20, of Cincinnati.

The tragedy occurred at 8:40 o'clock Sunday morning, even as friends of the passengers were waving them farewell, a few moments after the American Airways all-metal transport ship had taken off after a delay of about 40 minutes because of inclement weather.

According to reports of eyewitnesses, the craft, taking off from Lunken airport, Cincinnati, had reached the four-hour flight to Atlanta, had reached the banks of the Little Miami river, on the edge of the airport. All occupants of the craft were instantly killed; the right hand motor of the big tri-motored plane was found 1,500 feet from the wreckage of the plane.

The disaster struck a note of deep sorrow in the homes of the two Atlantans and in those of hundreds of their friends. Mrs. Brimberry, a patient at a private hospital, was eager in awaiting the return of her husband, and by her side lay their week-old son, William H. Brimberry Jr. At their home were their two other children, Ann, 8, and Carolyn, 6.

Sunday morning Mrs. Keith had driven to Candler field to inquire about the time when her husband would arrive. She was informed that due to unfavorable weather the take-off at Cincinnati had momentarily been deferred; and she had returned.

U. S. POWER BODY PROBES INDUSTRY

Commission to Determine Control and Financing of Licensed Concerns.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The power commission embarked today upon an investigation of the entire electric power industry of the United States, going far beyond the companies which are under federal regulation.

This broad study was disclosed with an announcement by Vice Chairman Williamson that questionnaires had been mailed to all licensees of the commission and to the holding companies with which they are related, to determine the management, control and financing of the licensed concerns.

Previously the investigation had been indicated in a less sweeping form. Using a hitherto unexercised power, the commission will seek to learn the relations of companies not only with the electric industry but with other lines of business. It will seek to determine the economic relation of fuel produced power to the hydro-electric energy which alone, and in limited fashion, comes under government supervision.

Other studies, as yet unannounced, are in prospect.

The new questionnaires demand a full accounting of the securities of every electric utility concern connected with a company holding federal license on a waterpower plant. They are to develop what issues carry voting power and in what individuals or corporations large voting power is vested.

Other studies, as yet unannounced, are in prospect.

LABOR COMMITTEE SEEKS DRY REPEAL

Group To Demand Modification as Move for Industrial Relief.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor tomorrow will discuss a report submitted by labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act. The report expresses determination to win modification of the dry law during the coming session of congress.

"We are determined," says the report of the committee, of which Matthew Woll is chairman, "that no effort shall be spared to obtain modification in the coming session of congress, and we hope to so press the issue as to secure for it consideration during the first weeks of the session."

"We are not partisan to political parties in any sense of the word, but we are not blind to partisan political events. It is our belief that the support justly should be given to a congressional candidate in the Cincinnati district by the president and the republican national committee is highly significant change of heart in most important places."

"In our opinion this breaking down of precedent is destined to go much further and to have a material effect upon the minds of members of congress, and also on political leaders who are not members of congress, but whose advice is potent among congressmen."

"We know that approximately one-half of the states, and most of the larger industrial cities have entirely or almost exhausted their financial resources and will be unable to care for their unemployed this winter, either through employment or charity."

"We realize that the only way through which industrial relief can be made operative on any broad scale, and with sufficient speed to be of use, is the modification of the Volstead act. Not only would a great social, economic and constitutional wrong be righted by that means; not only would there be restoration of liberty and a restitution to an outraged people, but there would within a matter of days be the beginning of a vast readjustment through our economic structure."

"There would be a tremendous spending of money, not in charity, but in materials and in payment of wages. Fully 60 industries would feel the electric thrill of orders for materials and equipment, and through these 60 reviving industries money would be started on its way to grocery stores, to clothing stores, to banks, to hardware stores, to merchants of all kinds, for the necessities of life."

MOB CHIEF HUNTED IN CHILD'S SLAYING

Coll's Description Broadcast in Effort To Apprehend Assassins.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Police sent out a general alarm today for the arrest of Vincent Coll, Bronx gangster, whose followers have been identified to authorities as the gunmen who rode through Harlem "Little Italy" July 28 and shot five children, killing one.

Circulars bearing Coll's picture and description are now being prepared for distribution throughout the United States.

Coll is wanted principally in connection with the Harlem shooting, but detectives of the Bronx homicide squad said there were also other matters about which they wished to question him. Coll's last address known to the police was in the Bronx, but he has not returned there since the Harlem shooting.

The investigation of the Harlem shooting proceeded quietly otherwise during the day. The three men the police have in custody as material witnesses were presumably with the detectives in the search for the killers. The three men now in custody are Joseph Mucicelo, supposed eye-witness who is staying in a closely guarded hotel room; Anthony Troiano, whose exact connection with the case has been variously reported, and Joseph Bendinelli, who was named by Mucicelo as another eye-witness to the shooting.

Free Speech Suppression Charged In Dismissal of Ohio Professor

BY HERBERT LITTLE. WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(UP)—Grave violation of "every essential safeguard" in preserving freedom of speech was charged against the trustees of Ohio State University today by an investigating committee of the American Association of University Professors.

The committee exonerated Professor Herbert A. Miller, well-known sociologist, of the charges upon which the trustees discharged him from the university May 21, and added that until the trustees change their attitude, freedom of speech does not prevail at the big Ohio institution. The report also said there was evidence of bad faith in the handling of Miller's case by the trustees and the university president.

The committee reported that Miller must be reinstated and the trustees must concede academic freedom and the right of a faculty member of security of office "if the university is to remain in any reasonable time the esteem of intelligent opinion throughout the country."

The report, preliminary one, was characterized by President William R. Munro, of the association, as "a black eye" for the university.

"As to the complaints which the board declares it has received for several years against Dr. Miller's alleged radicalism on social and racial questions, the investigators were unable to discover any evidence of such dissatisfaction," said the association's announcement. "On the contrary, Dr. Miller is found to have been moderate and well-balanced in his expressions of views on such problems."

"As a result of the evidence," the statement said, "the committee records its conviction that personal animus against the professor, on the part of one or two members of the board of trustees, was solely responsible for the arbitrary action."

St. Simons Jury Refuses To Oust Colored Dancers

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 9.—A colored dance hall, located near a popular subdivision on St. Simons Island, will continue to operate by a verdict rendered by a jury of nine island selectmen in one of the most interesting and unique trials ever conducted on the island.

Trial of the case occupied all of yesterday, and in order to accommodate all who desired to attend, the scene was shifted from the little justice of the peace courtroom to the dance floor of the county casino. Three justices of the peace, Judge J. D. Gould, of St. Simons, and Judges Horace Symons, of Brunswick, and Horace Symons, of Brunswick, were introduced by both plaintiff and defendant, lawyers argued the case and the jury, composed of nine men by consent, rendered its verdict favorable to Sam Proctor, colored, owner and operator of the dance hall.

The several property owners brought the election proceedings on the grounds that the place was a nuisance, that its attendants produced much noise throughout the night, making it unpleasant for nearby residents, etc., while the attorneys for the negro dance hall proprietor introduced evidence showing that the place was a very quiet and orderly one.

In rendering their verdict, however, the jury requested the proprietor to use every effort to prevent any unusual noise at his place of amusement, in order to avoid further complaint.

DODGE'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED BY CHURCH

Resolutions Adopted Commend Retiring Pastor of Central Congregational.

Highly commending his record of service as pastor of the Central Congregational church during the last eight years, a special committee appointed by the congregation to confer with Dr. D. Witherspoon Dodge, in resolutions adopted Sunday night agreed to accept the pastor's resignation.

Dr. Dodge last Monday tendered his resignation because of what he termed the lack of financial support of the church. It will become effective October 1. The retiring pastor Sunday night announced that he had made no plans beyond that time. At the time the resignation was tendered the following committee was appointed to confer with Dr. Dodge with a view to dissuading him from resigning: J. S. Blackburn, Watson Fuller, Jean Carson, T. R. Bryant and Mildred Askew. When the committee, after several conferences with Dr. Dodge, felt that the pastor could not be moved to reconsider, it adopted the following resolution, which was approved by the resolutions committee of the church:

Resolved, that as members of the Central church we express our appreciation of his work in the church and in the Atlanta community.

His scholarly serious work after week have been his right to be considered a thorough student of the Bible and a discerning thinker on all religious subjects. His deep interest in persons in sorrow and sickness has been manifested by many calls in all cases where he could carry comfort and help.

He has been one of the leaders of liberal thought in Atlanta and his influence has been felt outside of the city. His deep interest in persons in sorrow and sickness has been manifested by many calls in all cases where he could carry comfort and help.

Sitting Bull's Slayer Paid Final Homage

CANNONBALL, N. D., Aug. 9.—(P)—Indians and white men, in whose councils he had stood as an influential figure for more than a half century, came to Cannonball by the hundreds today to pay final homage to Red Tomahawk, reputed slayer of Sitting Bull.

In the little Catholic church here, the body of the aged warrior was viewed after funeral services were read, both in the language of his fathers and in the tongue of the white people whose customs he had adopted.

Tonight the body was sent to Bismarck, where burial will take place Monday.

has extended over large and undefined areas of the southland. In educational, civic and welfare work he has shown a practical and effective interest; his church has always been open for all plans of a progressive character. By his address on various occasions and by his influence as a prominent member of the Lions Club his thoughtful and liberal views have been given a wide hearing. During his eight years as pastor of the Central church he has endeavored himself to a great many people as a conscientious pastor and a faithful friend. Be it therefore further resolved, that we heartily commend Dr. Dodge as a thoughtful, courageous and sympathetic Christian minister and a clear, impressive teacher of the great religious truths. Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each of the three Atlanta newspapers.

CATALONIA WILL ACT FOR STATE AUTONOMY

Spanish Province Plans Action in Case Assembly Rejects Request.

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 9.—(P)—In an atmosphere of complete secrecy, Catalonian leaders under the veteran Francisco Macia tonight began to plan action to be adopted in case the national assembly rejects the Catalonian request for state autonomy.

The autonomy proposal, ratified by the electorate a week ago, calls for the right of the province to deal with its own local labor problems and for other "sovereign rights."

It is known that Francisco Macia dined on Friday with members of the youthful separatist organization, the Estat Catala. Students Entering Oglethorpe University should matriculate at once. Autumn term begins September 27. Courses on the campus and by Radio Extension. Catalogue and information on application. Address Oglethorpe University, Georgia.—(adv.)

INSTALLMENT XXVI

The pale girl at his side couldn't but note, with something of dull surprise, how handsome Sam Winstead was tonight. He had turned white to the lips when he had placed the wedding ring on his bride's finger, but now his color had returned. His lips were red, his eyes were blue depths, his hair was riotously alive, the clasp of his hand firm and warm. She had never seen anyone so vital, so virile, so dynamic. And he was her husband. Sam Winstead—Sarah de Saussure... Winstead.

Wearing her daintiest, laciest nightgown, her finest lace cap, the lovely face showed around her shoulders fastened with a pink rosebud, grandmamma, sitting up among her snowy pillows, was waiting to receive them. The pale little bride of tonight looked at her with pride, and love, and gratitude—the beautiful old lady was safe and secure in her own home until the end. Her remaining years were protected—loss, disaster, poverty could never touch her. Sally would suffer no more anguished fears for grandmamma! Surely, that made everything all right, that was worth any sacrifice. She had kept her promise to poor grandpapa.

Mrs. Rutherford looked at Sally in her bridal white, kissed her, and held out her hand to the bridegroom, who stood beside her bed and looking down at her with eyes that reminded her of Rupert's. His heart had long since gone out to the colony's ghostly wife, living in her merciful illusion.

"Sally's husband!—You will take care of my child, and you will make her happy! I am so glad that Sally has chosen you, dear boy. You would make any girl happy—your eyes say so."

"My chief aim in life is to make your girl happy. Your Sally is my Sally, too, grandmamma," he told her. "She is such a darling girl, Sam! You don't know how dear she is to me. I am to her old grandmother!" There were tears in her eyes, and seeing them, Sam sat on the edge of the bed and gathered her in his arms. The old arms went about his shoulder, the old cheek leaned against his ruddy one.

"I am so glad to have a grandson!" she sighed. "Grandson, I have but one grief—that her dear grandfather couldn't be here to give her in marriage—to you. But he will come home tomorrow morning. How surprised he will be when I tell him, Sally!"

"Not surprised, dear grandmamma. But satisfied and happy, I hope."

"No, not surprised—I am sure he will understand," said the bridegroom. "I feel that he would have chosen you for Sally, grandson, had the choice been his. As I would had it been mine," said the bridegroom. "I consider the whole affair as a lovely surprise for Rupert! What a happy time I shall have tomorrow when he comes home! She added, 'Sally, see, I have put my piece of wedding cake aside. I shall put it under my pillow, and dream of my own bridegroom, and how happy we've been together.'"

Essie, in a bright new frock in honor of Miss Sally's wedding, now brought a small table to Miss Sarah's bedside, spread it with a cobwebby lace cover, placed on it two silver candlesticks and a vase of red roses, a decenter of wedding wine, and three of the tall wine glasses that had been used at Grandmamma's wedding. The candles were lighted, and the old lady was prepared to toast the bride and groom. The bridegroom poured the wine, and Mrs. Rutherford lifted her glass. "To the last Rutherford—the last bride of our house! The sweetest and dearest girl in the whole world!" said she. The bride touched the rim of her glass with her lips, but the bridegroom and grandmamma drank.

"And to Sally Rutherford's bridegroom!" Again the old hand lifted the glass. "Long, long years of health and happiness, of peace and prosperity to him and his, and may the blessing of God our Father rest upon his house!" Sally touched the rim of the glass again. Sam looked at her steadily.

ily, then deliberately raised his glass, bowed to Mrs. Rutherford, and drank. Grandmamma was much too excited to notice that Sally's glass remained full.

"Now sit down beside me, my children," commanded the old lady. "So I can touch you both, so I can hold a hand of each." She drew them both nearer. Sally avoided her bridegroom's eyes. She was married to Sam Winstead. When the mild old eyes met hers lovingly she smiled as best she could, hiding her sick despair.

Her new wedding ring burned her finger. She had a sense of panic when her eyes fell upon it.

Presently, because grandmamma mustn't be allowed to exhaust her strength, the bridegroom laid her back among her pillows, bidding her sleep well. Then he offered his arm to his bride. They should rejoice their guests.

"You may kiss me, grandson," said grandmamma royally. "Be good to Sally! O, Sam, be good to Sally!" she breathed, against his lips.

"Never have a moment's doubt of that, grandmamma," love Sally. I live to make Sally happy," he whispered back. Mrs. Rutherford kissed the bride and with a gentle, imperative movement, shoved her into the young man's arms. At the door, both of them paused to kiss their hands to her, and she raised hers as though in blessing. Then they went arm in arm down the stately steps, and were at once surrounded by a laughing group.

"Sally, you picked the prize man of the state. I rather wanted Sam Winstead myself!" laughed impudent Maud Lane.

"I didn't pick him so much as he picked me," said Sally with a smile. "What is any mere mortal woman to do when Sam Winstead decides she must marry him?"

"But see how everyone applauds my unerring taste!" said Sam. Still holding her arm, he walked over to Henry Winstead, standing with Mr. Sinclair and a few other of the older gentlemen present.

"You always wanted a daughter, dad," said he, and placed the girl's hand in his father's. He himself laid an arm on Henry's shoulder, and his eyes were blue wells of pure affection as they rested on Henry Winstead's face. Henry the inarticulate looked at her mutely. He couldn't have spoken at that moment to save his life.

"I am giving you the best father in the world, Sally," said Sam. "She has chosen the best of sons."

Colonel Rupert Ashley Middleton Rutherford's grandson looked at Henry Winstead with sick distaste. Her hand lay in his like an icy stone. What could they expect her to say to him? He remembered, ruthless, conscienceless, a money grubber, her heart recoiled against him. Conscious of all the eyes upon her, she mumbled something unintelligible, smiled mechanically, and withdrew her hand quickly. They had had her. They had her. The old name, even, was now merged into theirs. Surely that was enough!

She turned her head and met Henry's eyes, and a flash of haughty Rutherford pride for an instant blazed out at him; even though she had managed to breathe her lips with a fixed smile, he couldn't fail to understand those hostile eyes. Nor could Sam, who was watching her. Instantly he took her hand and drew her away, to be again surrounded by a gay and laughing group. The young man's face was calm, but as she ventured to look at him, she met a stern blue flash that equaled her brown one.

The last wedding guest had departed. Anne Cochrane, with tears and kisses, had driven off with Mr. Sinclair. Moses had put out the downstairs lights. Sally was in her own room at last. Her wedding dress had been taken off and she was in a lace negligee, sitting at her dressing table brushing her hair, when Sam Winstead knocked at her door, which Della opened to him, and then, with a smile, departed.

Al Clouts Two Homers, Single to Top Big Six.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Al Simmons clouted his way to the batting leadership of the major leagues and of the Big Six yesterday as he hit two home runs and a single in five times at bat. He lifted his average three points to .382, while Babe Ruth, who has been the leader, held his mark at .380. Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, once more returned to the Big Six, replacing Charlie Gehringer, of Chicago, as the third baseman of the National League. Terry hit three out of five for a three-point gain while Gehringer had an unchanged .342 average with one hit in three times up. The standing:

Al Clouts Two Homers, Single to Top Big Six.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Al Simmons clouted his way to the batting leadership of the major leagues and of the Big Six yesterday as he hit two home runs and a single in five times at bat. He lifted his average three points to .382, while Babe Ruth, who has been the leader, held his mark at .380. Bill Terry, of the New York Giants, once more returned to the Big Six, replacing Charlie Gehringer, of Chicago, as the third baseman of the National League. Terry hit three out of five for a three-point gain while Gehringer had an unchanged .342 average with one hit in three times up. The standing:

HAWKINS ELECTRIC CO. SPECIALIZES ON RADIO

Marion Hawkins, president of the Hawkins Electric Company, on Peachtree street where Ivy ends and Forrest avenue begins, announces that their company, through the acquisition of a number of expert radio mechanics are now repairing and installing every kind of radio made.

"We see a great future for the radio," says Mr. Hawkins, "and the inside knowledge we have of some improved features that will be given out in the near future justifies our position of getting ready for the applying of new attachments to many present radios as well as the installation of new ones."

"Here is another field we are now taking part in. Many people are selling or giving their first bought radios to kindred or friends and installing the newest models with their longer range possibilities and clear tones. When we get a phone call for this kind of service one of our expert men is quickly on the way and installs the new one and transfers the old one and puts it in operation all in a few hours time."

Speaking about their general business Mr. Hawkins said with 18 outside men at work, their business was about 200 per cent over last fall and that they had much work in prospect.

Among one of the important phases of electrical work that the Hawkins Electric Company has been noted for many years is their knowledge of working with the high voltage wires such as used around ice and other large plants.

Declines were largely without special significance, except as a measure of the apathy that prevails at this midsummer period. Noteworthy news developments affecting this market directly included the Standard Oil of Indiana dividend cut, accompanied by a break in the stock. The reduction, however, appeared to have been fairly well discounted by earlier selling of the shares, and considerable short covering appeared.

Cities Service yielded more than 2 points during the week, reaching the record low of 8 5/8 in a large turnover on Friday. Fox Theaters and General Theaters Equipment preferred values of many principal curb market stocks yielded around 1/2 point last week in response to the uninspiring reports from industry and the absence of buying interest on the part of professionals and public alike. Turnovers were small throughout the period.

Business Quickens Planning For Autumn Trade Revival

BY CLAUDE A. JAGEGR.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(P)—Worn down by months of subnormal sustenance, general business has been unusually susceptible to the energizing influences of August, the first week of the month has brought a gradual quickening in preparations for the autumn trade.

Heavy lines, such as metals and coal, remain much depressed, with quiet accentuated in coal by labor troubles, but the remarkable revival in the leather and woolen trades is well maintained, and wholesalers in the main report improvement in buying for autumn, although the extreme caution with which retailers are buying their plans is still complained of.

In contrast with the first week of August last year, there has been no such inspiring development as the widespread resumption of activity of the automobile manufacturers. The motor makers, on the contrary, continue at half capacity or less. On the other hand, the steel industry has shown untoward development as the widespread and alarming drought of a year ago. It is true that some states have suffered from lack of rainfall to which has been added the plague of grasshoppers, but the damage has been limited compared to a year ago.

The steel industry is scraping along at a level of 20 to 22 a week previously. Latest estimates indicated a reduction in output from 32 to 30 per cent of capacity, after the step up from 20 to 22 a week previously. In the first week of August last year, steel output slackened from 54 to 52 per cent of capacity. July statistics indicate the smallest iron and steel output since 1921, despite the marked expansion of capacity in the past decade.

With automobile output for August expected to show further curtailment from July, with construction in the aggregate extremely quiet, and with the railroads spending as little money on equipment as possible, the steel trade is not looking for much immediate change.

The woolen and worsted divisions of the textile industry continued to provide considerable cheer with a high rate of activity. The garment trade generally reports more activity in preparation for autumn. There has been a seasonal decline in cotton mill activity, but during the past week the slackening has been moderate compared with the usual slowing up in cotton at this period.

There were soft specialties, affected by the heaviness of Fox Film and reports that unfavorable dividend action was in prospect for the latter. A handful of utilities showed some firmness, notably Utilities Power & Light reached a new high early in the week but subsequently reacted. American & Foreign Power was heavy and easy, characterized the market performance of such shares as Electric Bond, American Superpower, United Light, American and others.

RAILS' WEAKNESS DEPRESSES BONDS

BY ALEXANDER HENDERSON.
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(P)—Recurrent weakness in rail issues was the outstanding development of the bond market last week.

The downward trend was almost uninterrupted and a large number of issues of various investment ratings reached new low levels for the year. The average price for 10 leading rail bonds ended the week at 96, which represented a net decline of 2 2/10 points for that period and the most important factor in the loss of 1 point in the average for 30 leading issues which closed at 93 1/2.

Nothing of a generally bearish nature for the railroads developed but the plight of the carriers on the whole is known not to be encouraging, a viewpoint reflected in the action of rail stocks.

Another evidence of lack of buying interest in bonds appeared in the limited turnover in most groups. The total sales of the New York Stock Exchange on Saturday established the lowest aggregate turnover for a short season since August 2, 1930, at $3,355,000. The small volume of stocks broke no records but the market as a whole was never really active.

Foreign obligations provided many of the sharp declines and Latin American issues experienced a good many also. German bonds moved back and forth to close with regular changes. The 5 1/2s and 7s of the national government were firm most of the time. The lack of further complicating results following the reopening of German banks on Wednesday contributed some confidence to the situation.

Industrial bonds were alternately steady and irregularly lower. Many of the more representative issues ended the week with moderate losses. Public utility loans were quiet most of the time at steady prices.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON LOSES IN 'EVENING UP'

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 9.—(P)—Although the government report with its surprisingly large forecast of a crop of 15,584,000 bales on an estimated yield per acre of 185.8 pounds was the great feature of the week in cotton, it was issued 10 minutes after the market closed at present. The more therefore had no direct effect on the week's trading. Nevertheless prices were influenced to a large extent by the report of the Bureau of Cotton, which was issued at the close of the trading was described as evening up.

The long interest liquidated freely, resulting in prices making new lows for the year on several successive days. The selling was added to by considerable hedging, in some measure absorbed by shorts covering. It was the general opinion, however, that a large proportion of the accumulated short interest was carried over the week, and that the bulk of the trading was described as evening up.

Although prices at one time during the week were 33 to 35 points below the high points of Monday, there was enough short covering to ward the end of the week to cut the net loss for the week compared with the previous Saturday, to exactly 20 points or a dollar a bale.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the week compared with a year ago:

	High	Low	Close	Year Ago
Oct.	8.45	7.90	8.12	12.27
Nov.	8.67	8.14	8.29	12.57
Dec.	8.75	8.25	8.41	12.65

ALABAMA MAN KILLED BY FALL INTO CANYON

TUCALOOSSA, Ala., Aug. 9.—(P)—Luther Maxwell, 65, Tuscaloosa businessman, was killed yesterday by a fall into a canyon near Lake Louise, Alabama. American & Foreign Power was heavy and easy, characterized the market performance of such shares as Electric Bond, American Superpower, United Light, American and others.

Maxwell was on an automobile tour through Alabama and British Columbia. Advice received here said he fell over a precipice while with his wife, a cousin, Miss Annie Mallory, of Birmingham, and H. French Forbes, of Birmingham.

HIGHLIGHTS OF WALL STREET

By CHARLES W. STORM,
Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—A study of the course of the general stock market over a long period of years shows that the trend of prices has usually been upward. It is for this reason that Wall Street is hopeful the downward trend in the stock market will be halted this week and a forward movement started based on buying in anticipation of seasonal fall improvement in general trade and industry.

Seasonal improvement in business during the fall last year was disappointing. August usually witnesses dullness in general business, but the stock market, as a rule, anticipates improvement until events show the absence of such a development.

Inasmuch as the steel industry is considered the barometer of general trade, the Street will direct considerable attention to the statement of unfilled tonnage to be made public by the General Steel Corporation.

The general opinion is that, notwithstanding the low rate of operations during July, the statement of unfilled tonnage will show but a small increase over the other. Should the figures, however, show a substantial increase, it would be considered as favorable.

MARKET DEFLATED.
Another reason why the Street looks for possible improvement in the stock market this week is the fact that the general run of stocks have been thoroughly deflated. This is emphasized by the low level of average prices for stocks and the record-breaking low figure for brokerage carried on margin also shows that securities are now lodged in strong hands.

A second reason for expecting a turn for the better in the stock market is the unusually attractive yields that may be obtained on dividend-paying stocks. The small volume of stocks being carried on margin also shows that securities are now lodged in strong hands.

BRADSTREET WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for last week, as reported to Bradstreet's, show a gain over the previous week after declining steadily for the past three weeks. The total, however, is still considerably below the same period of last year.

The total bank clearings at forty-seven leading cities of the United States for the week ending July 17, according to Bradstreet's, aggregated $7,303,216,000, an increase of 16.7 per cent over the previous week, but a decline of 27.7 per cent from the same week a year ago.

The weekly average of new orders for the year to date now stands at $38,619,461.

Four ships of the Transoceanic Line, two at San Francisco, six at Seattle, and one at Los Angeles.

TENT AND AWNING BUSINESS ACTIVE

The Atlanta Tent & Awning Co. is attracting much favorable notice by the many large orders they are receiving from different sections of the country. This company has had an unusually good season this year, and has fitted up many fine homes and buildings in this and adjoining states. Much of their success this year is due to aggressive advertising.

This firm features store awnings all the year around, and their outside crew may be seen in all parts of the state putting up store awnings. The advantages of putting awnings on a home are manifold in addition to just protecting the rooms from the sun's rays, they add greatly to the general appearance of the home.

The attractive, distinctive "Style-Bilt" awnings of the Atlanta Tent & Awning Co. also give many times their own cost to the value of any home or building; they also give a degree of privacy and comfort that would be quickly missed if a home owner was to take them down once they were installed.

The Atlanta Tent & Awning Co. with over 40 years' experience in making canvas goods, and with a well-equipped plant, housed in their own building all these years, is better prepared than ever to make anything that can be made of canvas.

They call special attention to the fact that they make large and small tents all the year around, and have considerable tent work in prospect for show people, contractors and religious meetings.

This firm has always been a live factor in the industrial and commercial life of the south side of Atlanta, East Point, Hapeville, College Park and vicinity, as the great number of employees they have on the payroll all the year round spend much money during the year with the trades people of that general section of Fulton county.

UNQUALIFIED, GRANT QUILTS ARKANSAS 'POL'

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Aug. 9.—(P)—Notified his training did not legally qualify him to serve as president, Dr. J. R. Grant, veteran educator and member of the board of trustees of the Arkansas Polytechnic College, tendered his resignation to the board of trustees today, effective at once.

A prominent law firm, established in the college in 1909 required that the president be a graduate of a standard agricultural college.

Although Dr. Grant holds degrees from several universities he is not a graduate of an agricultural college. The notice from the board was based on a ruling by Attorney-General Hal Norwood.

Some of the larger cities reporting smaller totals than a year ago were: Chicago 48.2 per cent, Philadelphia 17.2 per cent, Boston 19.4 per cent, St. Paul 18.6 per cent, Pittsburgh 22.1 per cent, Detroit 22.2 per cent, Cleveland 20.2 per cent, Kansas City 34.2 per cent and St. Louis 21.2 per cent.
